LEMON GROVE
Continues to be the Fastest Growing City in Southern California

Vol. 4, No. 24 | LEMON GROVE, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1952 | 5c PER COPY

Will Vote on Second Barrel Contract Tuesday, February 26

Must Have 2-3 Majority To Carry

The second barrel contract between the San Diego County Water Authority and the Navy will be submitted to the voters of the La Mesa, Lemon Grove and Spring Valley Irrigation District and nine other member agencies at a special election Tuesday, February 26.

Thus will be climaxed the Water Authority's ceaseless efforts to bring about the completion of the San Diego Aqueduct by constructing the additional tube, and thereby doubling the present supply of Colorado River water. The drive for the second barrel started soon after the first line went into operation late in 1947, and culminated in the recent negotiations with the Navy, which has agreed to build the line.

In all Water Authority areas except the City of San Diego, the second barrel contract will be the only water proposition on the ballot. In San Diego, the vote will be on the contract, a collateral agreement, and a proposition to complete the Sutherland Dam.

Water leaders here and elsewhere in the county are watching with more than usual interest the election campaign in San Diego, particularly the vote on the second barrel contract and the collateral agreement. The latter, under the city's charter requires a two-thirds majority.

Indicitve of this county-wide interest in the San Diego voting, the San Diego County Irrigation District Officers Association, at its quarterly meeting in Vista, voted unanimously to conduct a campaign for ratification of the contract and collateral pact, with emphasis on the San Diego phase of the voting. A special county committee will direct this campaign.

R. M. Levy, president of the La Mesa, Lemon Grove and Spring Valley Irrigation District is chairman of a special county committee to direct the campaign.

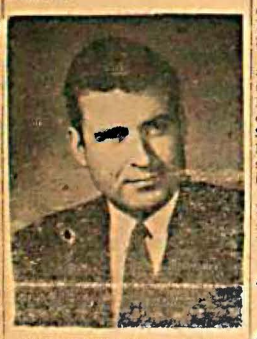
J. A. Steiger Is Candidate For Congress

John A. Steiger, young businessman and active civic leader of Oceanside, announced his candidacy today for United States Congress for the new 28th Congressional district.

"I believe in government by laws based on the Constitution of the United States and not by laws based on the might of selfish political pressure groups and incompetent politicians," Steiger declare. "I further believe in honesty, efficiency, integrity, and patriotism in every phase of our government."

"Inflationary high prices and higher taxes of the Truman administration must be stopped," he added. "We must have less government interference in business and more business in government."



Steiger has been a leader in Republican political activities since returning to civilian life from service as an Air Force pilot during World War II. He is a past president of the Northern San Diego County Young Republicans, and served on the California delegation to the 1948 Republican National Convention in Philadelphia.

Born and raised in the 28th Congressional district, Steiger was graduated from Stanford university and attended the School of Law at the University of California at Los Angeles. He heads the real estate and insurance firm of John A. Steiger and Associates.

Steiger has gained statewide recognition as an outstanding civic worker. He organized and was elected charter president of the Oceanside-Carlsbad Junior Chamber of Commerce, and served as vice-president and state agricultural committeeman of the California Junior Chamber. Recently, he was named "Outstanding Young Man of 1951" in Oceanside and Carlsbad.

"I am against the Truman policy where young Americans are not allowed to win a war in which they are asked to fight. I am opposed to the forces of communism and any other atheistic ideologies," Steiger stated.

S. I, Thomas, USN, Returns on Luzon

The U. S. S. Luzon (ARG-2), namesake of the Navy's famous China gunboat sunk early in WW II, will return to San Francisco Monday, February 11 with 48 California sailors aboard, following more than 13 months in the Far East, according to Rear Admiral B. J. Rodgers, Commandant of the Twelfth Naval District.

The Luzon, a Navy repair ship serving UN Naval Forces in the Jepan-Korean theatre departed San Francisco on December 26, 1950. The ship was taken out of mothballs from the Pacific Reserve Fleet the presceding September.

The present ship is named after the U. S. Luzon, a river gunboat sunk on the Yangtze River by the Japanese during the early days of World War II. She was first commissioned a Navy ship on October 1943, and served continuously until placed into reserve in June 1947.

Pfc. Joseph Page Highjumper in Army in Japan

A member of General Matthew B. Ridgway's crack honor guard in Tokyo may compete with Russian athletes in the international Olympic games at Helsinki, Finland, this year.

He is 22-year old pfc Joseph L. Page, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman G. Page, 8355 Golden avenue.

His jump of 6-feet 8¼ inches at Oslo, Norway, was the fifth highest registered since Les Steers set the world record at 6 feet 11 inches in 1941. Page's highest recorded jump is 6 feet 9 inches.

The young soldier finds time to train at Tokyo's Nile Kinnick stadium despite the demands of his unit, know as one of the snappiest in the Far East Command. Before he will be eligible to try for the 1952 Olympic, he must survive a Far East Command track meet in April and the all-army finals in June.

He says his 10 months in the Army have helped his jumping by correcting a muscle condition in his back that hindered him in college.

Page adds that his biggest problem is keeping his weight down. He says at 204 pounds he must lose 11 pounds to reach top jumping form, a difficult task for a soldier, eating in Army mess halls.

Why Cafeteria At Golden Avenue Has "B" Card

Although the cafeteria at the Golden Avenue and Lemon Grove Intermediate Schools received a very high rating on methods, the examiner found the building itself in such poor condition that they were forced to issue a "B" card to this school establishment.

In the actual preparation and serving of food to the many students who enjoy hot lunches there daily, the cafeteria was found above average. However, under equipment, it was not possible to score the cafeteria completely satisfactory. The floors of the building, made of wood and uncovered, cannot meet required standards, and the walls and ceilings are not the best. The windows are well-screened, but light and ventilation are poor, due to lack of standard fans, etc., which cannot very well be installed in such an old building.

The examiners stated that any such establishment where the building would have to be condemned could not receive a high rating. It was also suggested that a separate building would be needed for the cleaning of garbage cans, etc.

The school will continue to maintain a high rating in the methods of cafeteria operation, but until that time when a new all-purpose room, such as the district has now at Vista La Mesa and San Miguel, can be constructed on the School Lane site, it will be impossible to correct the shortcomings of the present cafeteria.

WINS G.O.P. AID

CHIEF JOSEPH RED HORSE

CALIFORNIA REPUBLICANS ADOPT PLANK TO FREE INDIANS

One more forward step in his twenty-five year fight to win emancipation for the American Indian was accomplished by Chief Joseph Red Horse, a Cherokee of Napa, at the January annual convention of the California Republican Assembly in San Francisco.

For the first time in the history of either of the two national political parties, the platform committee of the Republican Assembly adopted a plank submitted by Chief Red Horse as a delegate from Napa, urging the National Republican Party to grant the Indian citizenship and to abolish the Indian Bureau of the Department of the Interior. It would effect the status of over 25,000 Indians in California and some 400,000 in the United States.

Boy Scouts Observe 42nd Anniversary

Believing that the fundamental need in America and the world today, is character, the Boy Scouts of America will launch its new three-year program known as "Forward—On Liberty's team" during Boy Scout Week, February 6 to 12, the organization's 42nd birthday.

The nation's 735,000 adult volunteer Scout leaders involving more than 80,000 Scouting Units see the new program as a challenge that the youth of America may have available a program of character development so they may be trained, "on their honor, to do their duty to God and their duty to their country."

Pointing out that in a few years, America will have nearly fifteen million boys of Scouting age, Dr. Arthur A Schuck, Chief Scout Executive of the Boy Scouts of America, said in a Boy Scout Week message that "everyone of them represents an opportunity as they march from youth to manhood."

Scouting's challenge says the Chief Scout Executive, is training "our youth in character, in qualities of citizenship and unselfish service."

"Many Americans," he says, "believe in our ability to make the Scout Oath and Law and the Scout Program vital factors in helping to preserve American Democracy, through men who are 'physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight.'"

"Today's challenge," he warns, "is fast running out. More boys must have the best leadership, the best program and the best in spiritual ideals."

"The fundamental requirements for the kind of democracy of what I speak is character in the individual citizen. There is

Large Attendance at S.D. Co. Federation Meeting

Lemon Grove Woman's Club had a gala day last Saturday, February 2, when they were hostesses, in their club house, to the Executive Board of the San Diego County Federation of Women's Clubs. About 175 women from all parts of the county attended. Mrs. Edna May Martin, county president, presided over the meeting.

At the morning session, a motion was made by Mrs. John H. Crippen, District Federation recording secretary, which carried unanimously. It urged all women to "write your senators, Nixon and Knowland care of Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C. and ask them not to ratify any treaty, agreement or report, presented by the United Nations or any other agency, or person, that would in any way supercede our Constitution or Bill of Rights. There is such a bill pending now that would so nullify our Constitution.

Mrs. Kathryn Niehouse, our State assemblywoman, in her talk, urged members to write to Governer Warren and ask that the State Crime Commission make the teenage narcotics use their major study this year.

A group of songs were beautifully sung by Margaret Butler, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. John Metzger, District and County Music Chairman. Miss Butler was a pretty picture in a knit dress that exactly matched the fresh peach blossoms used in the decorations.

Exquisite decorations were done, as usual, by the decorating committee, Mrs. Frank Barber, Mrs. L. D. Newton and Mrs. O. R. Patterson.

Mrs. Amer C. Stolp, president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, was the main speaker, using the subject, "Visions Unlimited." She stressed the freedom we have in this country and contrasted it with the travel she experienced in Europe where, at every train stop, her baggage was examined and she was eyed suspiciously. Mrs. Stolp urged women to take an active interest in politics and more women to hold public office. "I see no reason why we cant have honest politicians," she said. Mrs. Stolp is a dynamic speaker and was applauded most enthusiastically.

Mrs. A. O. Treganza took 158 reservations for luncheon which was served by the hostess club. All credit for the speed with

Truman Submits Record 'Peacetime' Budget of $85 Billion to Congress

THE BUDGET—"A heavy burden . . . the price of peace". With these words President Truman attempted to describe his proposed budget of $85,444,000,000 for the fiscal year which begins July 1. This amount does not include a five to six billion dollar atomic energy expansion program which the President said would be sent to congress in the near future.

This proposed budget is an increase of almost $15,000,000,000 over the current fiscal year which ends June 30. And it is not far from the record World War II spending of $100 billion in the 1945 fiscal year.

As outlined by the President, more than three-fourths of the total would go for national security programs, including $51,100,000,000 for the armed forces, $10,800,000,000 for foreign aid, $1,700,000,000 for atomic weapons, $811,000,000 for defense production and economic stabilization, and $339,000,000 for civil defense.

The military expansion program, as outlined by the President, would include increasing the armed forces from 3,600,000 to 3,700,000 men, the Air Forces from 90 wings to 143, increase the Army's 19 divisions to 21, add another 16 major combatant vessels to the Navy's 392, build up to 16 large carrier air groups, and increase the Marine Corps from two to three divisions.

All of this, of course, is the proposed plan, depending upon approval of congress. At this point that approval is unlikely, because it would mean further increase in taxation.

Adoption of this budget would mean a deficit of $14,446,000,000 for the next fiscal year unless congress approved the $5,000,000,000 tax increase already requested by the President. But this is an election year and congress will be even more economically minded than in the past.

Congressional debate over this proposed budget during the next few weeks is likely to be bitter. And it will end with congress slashing it as much as possible. At the present moment there is no indication of how much they will cut it. The defense items may be cut some, but the greatest slashes will be foreign aid and less necessary domestic items.

CHURCHILL'S MISSION ACCOMPLISHED—Aging but still dynamic Winston Churchill accomplished his mission to the United States. That mission can be best summed up in his own words as he concluded his speech before a joint session of congress.

He said: "Bismarck once said that the supreme fact of the 19th century was that Britain and the United States spoke the same language. Let us make sure that the supreme fact of the 20th century is that they tread the same path."

It was the third time in a decade that Churchill had addressed a joint session of congress. His speech was well received and it was evident he had accomplished much in bringing about greater cooperation between his country and the United States. Announcements of policy agreements, the transfer of vital materials from one nation to the other, and accord on military matters in Europe after a series of meetings with President Truman and other high officials, also indicated the successfulness of his mission.

The British leader also promised that Britain would help defend Western Europe against Soviet aggression. And he cautioned the United States "to give all things" not to give up its atomic weapons without an iron-clad guarantee of peace.

FARM PROGRAM—The federal farm programs, of vital interest to farm towns across the nation, will cost approximately 7 per cent more this year because of a government need to encourage greater crop and stock production, President Truman said in his budget message to congress.

According to best estimates the greatest part of the cost would be for price supports, soil-conservation payments, and wheat-export subsidies.

The President reported the price-support program is being used to encourage farm production by keeping support prices of cotton, corn, wheat, soybeans, milk, wool, and several other commodities at 90 per cent of parity.

The budget calls for $256,500,000 for payments to farmers who carry out approved soil and water conservation practices, $70,000,000 for subsidies to farmers who co-operate with the government's sugar-control program, $50,000,000 for wheat export subsidies, and $75,000,000 for rural telephone and electrification loans.

EGYPT—The killing of an American nun in the Suez canal zone put the conflict between Great Britain and Egypt for control of that waterway into sharp focus for most of this country. She was identified as Brigitte Ann Timbers, 52, of New York. She had served in Egypt since 1947.

The British charge Sister Anthony was slain by Egyptian terrorists. Egyptian newspapers, however, said she was killed by British bullets. She was killed during a four hour battle between British soldiers and terrorists.

KOREA— Another week dragged by and still no important progress was reported in the Korea peace talks. The United Nations command agreed to reconsider an important phase of its armistice prisoner-exchange demands if the Communists would say how many civilians they wanted to return to South Korea. In effect, the U.N. dropped its demand for a total one-for-one exchange of Red prisoners.

There was no progress on the airfield question that has been holding up negotiations. The Reds insist on rehabilitation of airfields during an armistice. The U.N. command has opposed it.

Meanwhile, at home, Senator Taft called the Korean War unnecessary and said it could have been prevented if the United States had stayed in Korea and rearmed the South Koreans after World War II.

Taft also said he would make a truce in Korea if he were President because even a stalemate truce is better than a stalemate war."

Gov. Earl Warren of California, a "native son" candidate for the GOP presidential nomination, may be the key to the coming national convention. He may throw his influence to either Taft or Eisenhower it could be enough for that candidate. If the two top men should become deadlocked, he is the compromise candidate. He is shown here talking to Guy Gabrielson, GOP National Committee chairman. Mayor Elmer Robinson of San Francisco stands behind them.

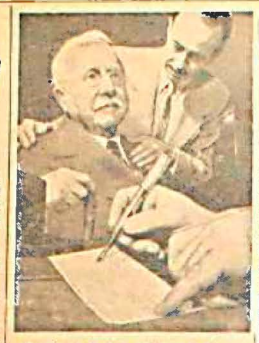
U.S. BABY BOOM

Population Increases 2.5 Millions Yearly

According to a statistical bulletin issued by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, the United States may soon break all world's records in population growth. Americans are being born at the rate of 4,000,000 each 10 years. It is estimated that by 1962 there will be 181,500,000 of us.

Births in the United States set an all-time record of more than 3,900,000 last year. After subtracting the deaths, the gain amounts to 2,650,000. This reflects, the report said, the increase in marriages after the start of the Korean War.

There is a general trend to break away from the one-or-two-child family that prevailed before World War II, the report adds. Also, there is a general trend in the United States toward earlier marriages.



ALIEN ACT EXTENDED . . . Charles Holl, who has been in U.S. since 1914, is helped at Hebrew immigration society in New York, N.Y., in filling out his alien registration. Holl came to this country from France and this nation has become his home.

GREEK HERO . . . John Skoullkaris, Athens, whose ears and nose were cut off while fighting Communists in Greece, visits the Greek consulate in New York. He is in the United States on the personal invitation of President Truman to tell his experiences.

EXIT SMILING . . . Gambler Frank Costello waves as he enters a taxi at federal court building in New York City after the jury deliberating his contempt of congress trial announced it could not agree on a verdict and was discharged. There will be a new trial.

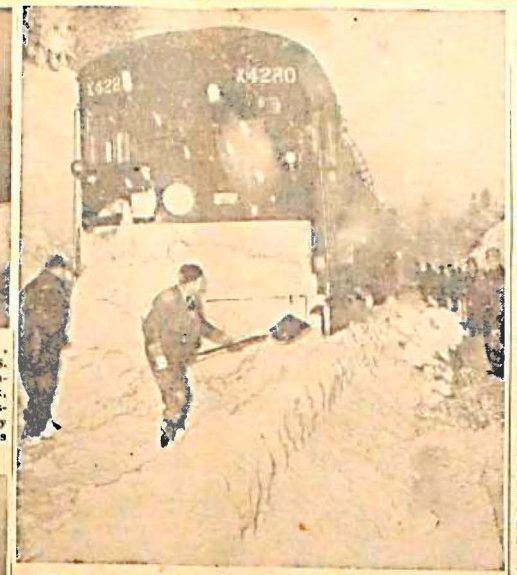
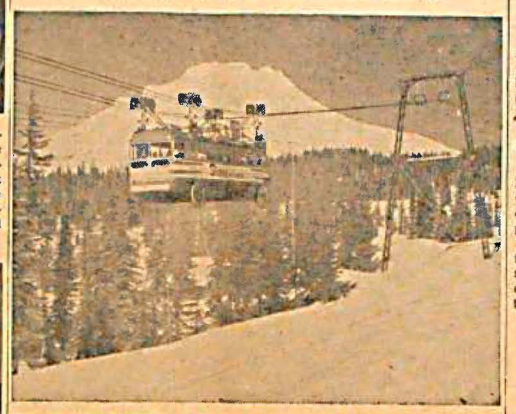
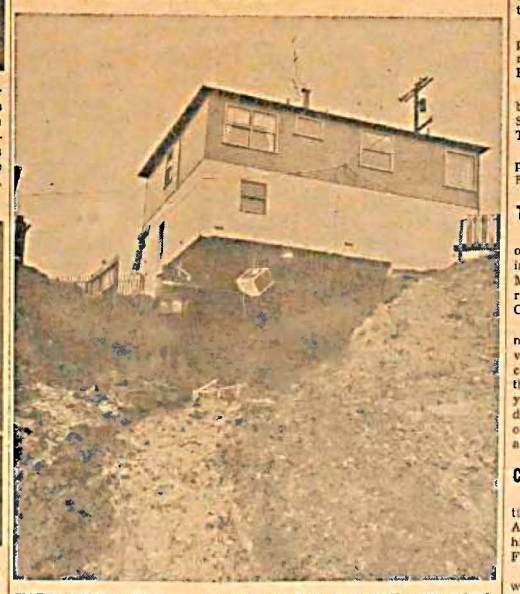
MOST WANTED . . . Frederick Peters (left), confidence man listed among "10 most wanted criminals," waits in custody of a U.S. marshal in Washington, D.C. He will be arraigned on charges of impersonating a federal officer.



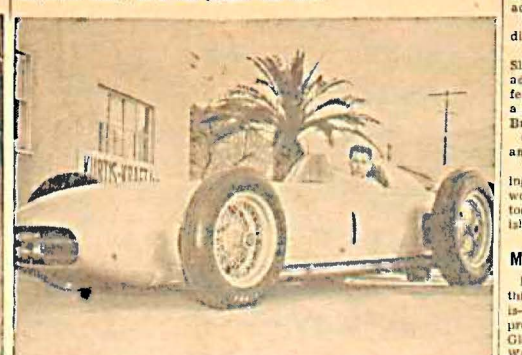
SNOWBOUND . . . The westward crack streamliner train City of San Francisco was snowed under in the High Sierra mountains in California as a record snow storm swept northern California and western Nevada, blocking mountain passes. Here, work crews are digging out the fast continental train which was 29 hours late in reaching San Francisco. Rescue crews saved 222 persons from another train snowbound near Emigrant Gap, Calif., after fighting snow drifts to reach train.



THE SKYWARD BUS . . . The next best thing to flying in a big airliner across the mountains is a high trip on this "sky bus" up the steep slopes of Mount Hood. This one is carrying a load of visitors from Government Camp, Oregon, to Timberline Lodge to enjoy the pleasures of the skiing season, now in full swing. The spectacular trip by special tramway bus leads over beautiful forest areas, ravines and glacial terrain in the wilds of Oregon's mountains.



YARD SLIDES AWAY . . . In South San Francisco, Calif., undermined by continued rains, the concrete floor and garage dropped away from the home of Robert Mayerson. The caved-in portion of the home slipped down a hillside. An avalanche of sand and debris was still washing down into the back yards of dozens of homes on this street, near the Mayerson home, when this picture was taken.



READY FOR INDIANAPOLIS . . . Fred Agabashian, Albany, Calif., veteran of five previous 500-mile races, gets the feel of the new Cummins diesel special which he will drive in the 1952 Indianapolis speedway classic on May 30. The car, entered by the Cummins Engine Co., Columbus, Ind., is only 29 inches high at the cowl and is powered by an experimental diesel engine of horizontal design. The body was built by Kurtis-Kraft at Los Angeles, Calif.

THE WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

McGrath Deal

ONLY cabinet member who has outsmarted the President in his accustomed technique for axing an unwanted member of the official family is Attorney General Howard McGrath. Howard was out of the ring, hanging on the ropes, and given the count of nine. But by some of the cleverest footwork ever displayed in Washington, he managed to scramble back into the cabinet.

Here is the inside story of how he did it.

By now, official Washington has become quite familiar with the way Harry Truman eases out a cabinetcer he doesn't want. Secretary of the Interior Julius Krug, for instance, was axed by a planted story that he was resigning, following which the President said "no comment" at his next press conference, and Krug knew the jig was up.

Similar procedure was followed with Defense Secretary Louis Johnson.

Therefore, when word came out of the White House that the Lamar Caudle hearing had embarrassed the President, shrewd politician McGrath beat the President to the punch, offered his resignation—if he embarrassed the administration.

But Harry Truman, who shies from clashes with people he likes personally, hemmed, hawed, said he had no intention of pulling the rug out from under his friend, did not accept the suggested resignation.

Ambassador to Spain

Nevertheless, he did have Donald Dawson look round for another job with sufficient prestige so McGrath could be eased out of the Justice department without loss of face.

And Dawson soon came up with the ambassadorship to Spain. This seemed a natural. McGrath is one of the top-ranking lay Catholics in the United States.

Shortly thereafter, a carefully planted White House story appeared in the local press that McGrath would go to Spain and that ex-Judge Justin Miller would become the new attorney general.

Naturally McGrath knew exactly what was up. This was the same treatment given Krug and Louey Johnson. Furthermore the McGrath resignation story was followed by a press conference at which the President bluntly refused to comment on the report that McGrath was to go.

All that day, newsmen tried to phone McGrath. Ordinarily easy to reach, he kept ominous silence. However, he was not idle.

Overnight he hauled up two of his biggest guns. One was Cardinal Spellman, who sent a message from Tokyo.

Truman in Reverse

Meanwhile, Matt Connelly, though ordinarily lukewarm toward AG and in favor of appointing Judge Tom Murphy of New York to head a corruption commission, went to McGrath's defense.

That was why the President at the next cabinet meeting suddenly reversed himself, told the surprised cabinet and the surprised McGrath that with the beginning of the new year he wanted them to know that despite the press attack on his attorney general, he was keeping them all on.

Churchill's Wit

Prime Minister Churchill was getting a progress report on the Anglo-American military discussions from his friend and military observer, Field Marshal Sir William Slim.

Referring to the dispute as to whether NATO should adopt Britain's new automatic rifle or the new American Garand rifle, Field Marshal Slim reported:

"So far we haven't made much progress. Both guns are good and it's difficult to decide which one to adopt."

Churchill listened patiently, nodding his head in agreement.

"It's my guess," Field Marshal Slim continued, "that we'll finally adopt a rifle that contains the best features of both models. It'll be a bastard rifle—half American, half British."

Churchill's eyebrows shot up. With an air of solemn gravity he said: "My dear Marshal, aren't you being a trifle careless with your words? Have you forgotten that I, too, am half American, half British?"

THE BIG SHOW

Chicago's 'Cow Barn' Will Be Site of Political Conventions

By Walter A. Shead
WNU Washington Correspondent

To some from the rural areas, Chicago's "Cow Barn" will be a familiar sight, but to thousands of others, both delegates and visitors to the national political conventions next July, the 1952 setting for the presidential nominations may seem unrealistic.

For the site of the two national conventions has been switched from the traditional Chicago stadium on the Windy City's west side, to the International Amphitheatre at the Chicago Stock Yards, home of the famous International Live Stock Exposition and other big agricultural shows. This year's conventions add up to 21 national political conventions held in Chicago, 13 of them for the Republican party and eight for the Democrats.

Republicans will convene on Monday, July 7, with the Democrats following them into the amphitheatre two weeks later on Monday, July 21. There will be 1199 Republican delegates, 105 more than were recognized at the 1948 convention in Philadelphia, while the official Democratic delegation will be 1,230, four less than the 1948 total.

International Amphitheatre, Chicago's great convention, exposition and sports building is the site for the Republican and Democratic national conventions in July, 1952. The arena of the huge structure is now air-conditioned for greater comfort of those who occupy its 12,000 seats.

Despite the fact that the stock yards amphitheatre seats 8,000 less than the stadium, there are several compensatory factors which led to selection of the new site. One particularly good reason is that the amphitheatre is air-conditioned and that in itself is compensation when the heat factor on a Chicago July day is taken into consideration. Other factors included the fact that adjacent to the convention hall itself are four large rooms for housing committees and other essential activities of the convention, also air conditioned, plus large arjacent rooms to serve as workrooms for the press and radio, the necessary equipment for telegraph, telephone and teletype machines, dark rooms for photographers and other work incidental to such a big show as a national political convention.

While television received its first big work-out at the Philadelphia convention four years ago, television this year will play a larger part and will have a coast to coast audience, whereas four years ago the audience was confined to the east coast. Another factor taken into consideration is that there is lighted space adjacent to the amphitheatre big enough to park 4,000 automobiles. A first class hotel, good restaurants also are immediately adjacent.

HAROLD BECKLEY and William Donaldson, superintendents of the senate and house press galleries, respectively, and other members of a press committee, with representatives of the Republican and Democratic national committees, already have worked out seating arrangements to handle approximately 1500 reporters for newspapers, periodicals, magazines, radio and television. These temporary stands must be built from scratch, using and entirely new arrangement than heretofore used either at Chicago or Philadelphia.

Members of a joint committee from the two national committees also have worked out their arrangements to handle the delegates, seating and temporary stands, the two committees to share the expense jointly. About the only difference will be that when the Republican convention adjourns, pictures of Republican leaders will be taken down and Democratic pictures will be hung in their places.

Even though the seating capacity does not measure up to the 20,000 which have been crammed into the old stadium, those in charge of the convention are delighted with the better facilities.

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

DOROTHY SARNOFF is letting no grass grow under her pretty feet these days. Featured in the best musical in New York, "The King and I", she has been appearing on television more and more frequently. Now she has taken time off to rush to Hollywood and make a picture. This could be merely the preliminary to appearing on the screen in the role she does so beautifully in "The King and I" when that magnificent show reaches the screen; certainly no one could do it better than she does.

Margaret Truman's ability to relax amazed even RCA-Victor veterans during her recent recording session with the Boston Pops' Arthur Fiedler for a new song album.

MARGARET TRUMAN

They'd expected her to be stiffly proper. She removed her shoes between takes, sipped coffee from the thermos jug she'd brought from home, and sent out for hamburgers when a long break permitted.

Nobody was at all surprised when the George Stevens production for Paramount, "A Place in the Sun", was voted the best motion picture of 1951 by the National Board of Review. It's a leading contender for the Academy Award.

THE FICTION CORNER

NOT A GOOD RISK

By Maud McCurdy

JANET had said, "I'm not going to marry you, George!"

He had bought a run-down mansion at the edge of town, which he'd had converted into apartments.

The place was surrounded by meadows. Janet and George were out on the grounds, looking over the patios, the tennis courts, and the lily pond. There was still space left over for playgrounds of most any size.

3-Minute Fiction

This was where the trouble started. Janet said, "Think what this will mean to children who've never had room to run and play."

George looked startled. "We can't take children, Janet," he said.

George shook his head and Janet flushed angrily. "I don't believe you even like children. What else would you do with all this ground?" She hesitated a moment, then added, "I'm not marrying you, George. You wouldn't be a very good matrimonial risk.

George tried the best he could to defend himself, explaining that children were destructive. He argued, but Janet only looked at him in bewilderment.

"If you feel that way," she whispered, "you really are not a very good matrimonial risk." She left him standing there still trying to defend himself.

George tried to see her. He called her every day at the newspaper office, but she was out. It was plain Janet didn't want to see him again and there seemed to be nothing he could do about it. No matter what he tried, he could not get to see her.

Finally the apartments and grounds were complete. Peter Bolton, his partner, put a full page advertisement in the newspaper.

George looked startled. "We can't take children, Janet," he said.

WITHIN an hour after the paper came out people began coming, prosperous-looking young couples, every one with children. They were excited over the place, anxious to sign leases at once.

George was bewildered. He asked Peter what on earth had he put in the ad. "Only couples without children," Peter said firmly.

George began to feel a little desperate. There was one pretty young mother, with violet eyes, almost the color of Janet's, who said feelingly, "Mr. Hartley, the mothers of this town will call you blessed."

"But I . . ." George started to say a mistake had been made, but was stopped by another young couple shaking his hand and saying, "This is wonderful. It's like a dream."

George was perspiring. He found a moment, and took a look at the ad. There it was in bold type, "Only couples with children need apply."

Leaving Peter in charge, George drove to the newspaper office. Before he could get to the advertising department a reporter button-holed him. "Mr. Hartley, the whole town is talking about what you've done. You've really made news. This will make every newspaper in the state."

George pulled away from him, hurried to the advertising department. A voice said, "Yes?" and a pair of violet eyes looked up and met George's. A quick flush came to her face. "George, they only put me on this desk yesterday and I—I made the mistake. I'm sorry."

George stood there looking at her as if he never wanted to stop. "Look, Janet, I was looking at the matter in a cold-blooded, business way." He drew a long breath and went on, "You didn't make a mistake, I did. The place is just like you said, a natural for children. And they're there already, about a dozen of them with their parents."

"George, you mean that?" Janet asked. "You're not just saying it to get me to change my mind?"

"I never meant anything more," George answered.

"I'm glad," Janet said. "You know . . . I must have had my mind on the children. I didn't make the mistake in your ad on purpose. I really didn't, George, and don't you ever say I did."

George just smiled. The whole office force might be looking, but he didn't care. He bent his head and kissed her.

LYNN SAYS:
Keep Sandwich Spreads Full of Flavor

Simple tricks can make any sandwich, no matter how small or large, more tempting and easy to eat.

If you like an all-vegetable filling as a sandwich start with ¼ cup of salad dressing and add to it 1½ cups of one of the following: carrots, beans, peas or lima beans. Then blend in ¼ cup of one of these: parsley, watercress, celery leaves, onion or green pepper.

If you're a bit shy on meat for sandwiches, add some chopped hard-cooked eggs to the filling to extend and flavor it.

Roast pork is bland in flavor but it makes a good sandwich when you spread it with a small amount of barbecue sauce.

Cooked salad dressing can be used as a base for meat and vegetable fillings. To ½ cup of dressing add 1½ cups of coarsely chopped meat, fish, fowl, cheese or eggs. Then blend in ½ cup of chopped vegetable.

Last Six Years Cost US More Than 160 Previous

By Wright A. Patterson

FROM THE FOUNDING of this republic as a government, with George Washington as its first President, down through all the years—more than 160—to the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt, this government spent $158 billions.

That covered all the cost of all our wars since the Revolution. It included the cost of our second war with England, the Mexican war, the Civil war, the war with Spain, the first world war, and practically all of the Second World war, as well as all the lesser wars.

It included the cost of conquering the West, the building and rebuilding of the national Capitol. It included all the costs of our vast internal improvements, and the construction of the Panama canal, the purchase of the Panama railroad, the building and rebuilding of our navy, and the vast fleet of merchant ships built during World War I.

It included all the welfare expenditures of the Roosevelt administration. That $158 billion included every dollar paid out by the United States treasury over those years, down to the inauguration of Harry S. Truman, approximately six years ago. During those approximately six years of the Truman administration the treasury has paid out the staggering total of $160 billion.

A large portion of us, as tax payers, howled our heads off at what we considered the "wild" spending of President Roosevelt in his efforts to restore prosperity, to undo what World War I had done to us, but we knew now that as a spender he was but a "piker" compared to President Truman.

The record of the six years of Truman is so unbelievable that when radio commentator Fulton Lewis, Jr., saw the figures he would not believe them. He took them to the treasury department for verification. From its records, the treasury department verified the figures. It was all true. In approximately six years Harry S. Truman had spent more than all the presidents who had preceeded him through a period of 160 years of our national history.

The President was not responsible for spending that vast sum of $160 billion. He did not ask for all of the appropriations made by congress. Members of Congress, imbued with the idea of spending, provided some considerable sums on their own account in addition to meeting the requests of the President. Among the items of expense for which the President is responsible is the cost to the nation, year after year, of that army of bureaucrats he has built.

The President still has in his hands, as appropriations by congress some $40 billion that has not been spent, but which presumably is to pay for our re-armament, for planes, tanks, artillery, and additional naval vessels, that have not yet been ordered.

After all the wild spending we have witnessed during the past six years, we are still not prepared to meet Russia, if, as the President has so repeatedly warned us, Russia should thrust war upon us. Should the spending continue we will be as bankrupt as England, because of the socialistic experiments of the Attlee Labor government.

Incidentally some $35 billion of the $160 billion of Truman spendings went to England to finance those socialistic experiments. Similar experiments in this country are demanded by the President. It is certainly time for us to call a halt, not alone on the President, but also on those members of the Congress who vote appropriation for the fantastic, needless, utterly senseless projects that have been asked for. If they are not stopped we will soon be in a position where we cannot defend ourselves should Russia attack, which is not impossible, but hardly probable.

It is well that we not forget that $160 billion spent during the past six years as compared with the $158 billion through all the years of government operations from the days of Washington to the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

For the Republicans it is a long shot between a nomination and an election as was proven by Dewey and Bricker, and again by Dewey and Warren. They had, and there will again be, a handicap of close to 10 million job paid-for votes to overcome.

The weather man could win praise by a more even distribution of rain or snow.

Fourth Grade at Museum of Man

The children in Mrs. Holmes' fourth grade recently had an opportunity to visit the Museum of Man in Balboa Park, where they viewed many of the outstanding collections housed there. Local cultures and those of the Southwest were given special attention.

Pupils showed much interest in the relics of early cultures, and were facinated by the colorful, accurately detailed dioramas showing models of primitive Indian life. One of these shows a beach-side village of San Diego County Indians in the days before the arrival of the Spanish.

Carr Tuthill, curator of anthropology, reviewed many facts about the life, habits, and customs of these early people, using slides and other exhibits from the museum. His lecture added much to what the children had learned previously in the classroom during their study of California history.

The boys and girls also learned that museums can be fun. This particular museum combines education and pleasure in such a unique way that they are all eager to return. Accompanying the group as sponsors were Mmes. Mearle Pierce, Raymond Johnson, Howard Westphal, Elmer Evans, and Mr. Jack Monette.

Bicycle Club Meet Postponed

The Monterey Heights Bicycle Club will not meet this Saturday because of the absence of their sponsor, Mr. Finkleman, who is out of town. The next meeting of the club will be on February 16, at which time they will enjoy a weiner roast and picnic.

School Paper Staff.

The new staff for the second semester for the Vista La Mesa News, the school paper, has been announced by Mrs. Cornelius, faculty sponsor. Marilyn McDonald is editor; Melvin Stoner, assistant editor; Gerald Easley, manager; Norma Alvarez, art editor; Bonnie Bisbee, assistant art editor; Marilyn Maheu, Carol Finch and Barbara Moranville, copyists; and Barbara Thomas, roving reporter.

A Valentine issue of the school paper will be released on February 14.

Virginia Cornelius, who was chosen by the teachers association president and the administrators to represent the Lemon Grove District schools at the Conference on Good Teaching, February 1 and 2, at USC, reports that the conference was very successful. It was planned around discussion groups and good teaching demonstrations. She will give a detailed report to the teachers club in the near future.

Boys and girls from Mrs. Bengston's first grade are planning a trip to the B. and D. Ceramic Shop in Santee where they will gather first hand information on the making of pottery. They are also anticipating a visit from Mr. Gest, who will shoe a horse before the students.

Good Citizens Win Picnic Award

Students at Golden Avenue School, including the sixth graders, who have been outstanding citizens during the first semester will be awarded Friday with a picnic and visit to the San Diego Zoo in Balboa Park. This group will also include those students who are eligible and now attend the new San Miguel School. These good citizens are selected on the basis of excellent reports in social relationships and work habits. All held citizenship cards earned during the first and second quarters of the school year. The group will be accompanied by Evelyn Lauritzen, principal, and several parents. Rolland Purves is faculty sponsor.

Intermediate School

As a culminating activity for the study of Central America, Mrs. Holmquist's sixth graders chose committees to report on seven of these countries. They are also collecting many articles for their Latin-American scrapbooks.

Oliver Hodapp was recently chosen representative to Student Council. Chairmen are Diane McCune, room chairman; James Braudaway, paper; Kenneth Cox, banking; Linda Maxted, flowers; Janet Baxter, pencils; Wayne Avery, boards; Edwina Wroble, windows; Mary Sue McMahon, spelling; Cecelia Rojas, paper collector.

Mr. Lemke's class is beginning the study of water colors. They have learned to make secondary colors from primary ones, and have also made charts, showing the relationship of the different colors. The charts are on display in Room 20.

Student Elections Friday

Following a short student rally on Friday afternoon, students of 7th and 8th grades will cast votes for student council officers for the second semester. Candidates for president will speak to the assembly, and all other candidates will be introduced. Results of the election will be announced by Burton Young, student commissioner of elections, after all ballots are tallied. Results will appear in next week's paper. At the same time, new homeroom officers and student council representatives will also be given.

New officers for the month of February have been elected in Mr. Purves' class: Madeline Pechstein, president; Michael Demars, vice president; Gloria Smith, secretary; Jane Carlson and Barbara Goodman, room monitors; and Gerald Glazebrook, librarian.

Helix High Benefit Show

"Even the audience helped," said Mrs. F. A. Farrow, chairman, discussing the success of the the Helix High Choir Parents' program at the American Legion hall last Friday night. "We needed a piano moved at the last minute, so men from the audience lifted it from the stage to the floor and back again after the show."

"We are especially grateful to the American Legion Post 282 for the donated use of the hall and to Mr. Ralph Shook of the executive board, as well as others of Post 282 who helped with details," Mrs. Farrow said.

Children from the Myra Sonka Dancing School of Lemon Grove performed over one hundred strong and all the proceeds were turned over to the Choir Robe Fund. Mrs. B. M. Van Fleet, treasurer, said the sale of popcorn, candy and pop helped to swell the net amount to over $150.00.

Opening the program the choir, dressed in their new green and silver robes, sang a group of well-loved songs. Mrs. Gene Evans directed; Valerie Loustalet, pianist, Carl Christoph, vocal soloist. Janet Hentigan, member of both the choir and the Sonka Dancing School was mistress of ceremonies. Jerry Palmer also of the choir, was featured vocal soloist for the "Lovely to Look At" ballet.

Hoover Edges Scrappy Highlander Quintet

The City Prep League-leading Hoover Cardinals hurdled a tough barrier in its path to the C.P.L. crown last Friday night when they beat off a Helix rally to nip the fighting Higlanders, 43-39, in a first-rate basketball game in the Cardinal's gym.

Next Wednesday night, the Highlanders swing back into action against the La Jolla Vikings, at the Grossmont gym at 8:30. Helix will be after revenge to make up for its 49-26 loss to the Vikes last month when most of the Helix team was out with the flu. Starting time for the Class B preliminary is 7 p. m. The Bee game is of interest too, since the Viking lightweights are leading the league in their division and the Highlanders have been on a winning skein lately.

Vista La Mesa Hi-Y Faces Rolando Club

The Vista La Mesa and Rolando Hi-Y meet in a part of the annual YMCA Basketball Tournament Saturday night at the Y gym in San Diego.

In tournament play thus far, both clubs have won one game and dropped one. Both clubs took their win from Lemon Grove's Hi-Y entry, and both lost to La Cruz Hi-Y, of Mar Vista High.

Last Thursday night, the Vista La Mesans topped Lemon Grove, 46-34, in a non-tournament game at the Grossmont gym. Ronnie Hendee, Chuck Harter and Gary Keeler paced the Vistans' victory, while the Grovers were spurred on by Bernie Svalstad.

Drifting

By BOB GALLANDT

Article four, section nine of the constitution and by-laws of the Drifters states that "A military leave of absence may be granted any member . . ." and our personality of the week is one of the nine or 10 members who fall into the M.L.A. classification.

Daniel Barker, probably the "travelingest" member of the Drifters, was born in Westbury, Long Island, New York, in 1930. His father being a Navy man, Dan soon discovered most of the world by himself. Schooling was started in Cavite, near Manila, Phillipine Islands.

Then to Key West, Florida, and Miami, and finally back to Grossmont, where Dan was a four-letter man in sports.

Dan joined the Navy in July, 1949, and is stationed at North Island; an Airman 1c.

Dan is engaged to Shirley Rice, of Lemon Grove, and they are planning to get married soon.

Like most of the Drifters, Dan owns his own car, a 1938 Chevrolet coupe, slightly modified. He is proud of his unbroken safety record, and when asked how he maintains it, merely says, "I always drive as if the other guy is crazy." Come to think of it, that's a good idea.

The Drifters have ordered their jacket emblems, which are paid for out of dues from the members, to be delivered this month. The Drifter's emblem a cloud with dual carburators, is looked on with respect because of their safe-driving habits.

A picnic, combined with a reliability road run, has been tentatively scheduled for next Sunday, starting promptly at 9 a. m. from the Sugar Plum. Aside from that, we know nothing, except that the gals are invited (to cook, I suppose).

Mickey Seward decided that the crankcase on his '29 Chevie needed a little ventilating (it was probably hot in there,) so he proceeded to blow a hole in the side, using numbers one, two, and three rods to do it. For sale, cheap, 1 '29 Chevrolet. Mick and family have moved into San Diego. See you next week.

BOY SCOUTS

nothing wrong with America that character cannot change. That change can be effected in one generation, with proper character training for youth."

The Boy Scouts of America, Dr. Schuck feels has a great job to do to help develop "a body politic, which, because of its character, will not be indifferent to the responsibility of voting, but will consider their right to vote as a great privilege, that must be intelligently exercised, if government of the people is to prevail."

Dr. Schuck announced that the nation's Boy Scouts now numbering more than 2,900,000 boys and leaders, will take part in the campaign to Get Out the Vote in the Presidential elections this Fall. It will be, he said, "a non-partisan effort, without reference to any candidate or party."

The Boy Scouts will urge the people of America to exercise their franchise and go to the polls and vote. They will place on the door knobs of over thirty million American homes a cardboard hanger in the form of a Liberty Bell with the slogan of the new three-year program, "Forward—On Liberty's Team" and the injunction for every citizen to vote.

The Scout Program is a great help to the American home, Dr. Schuck feels. "There is no substitute," he says, "for the character training of children in a God-worshipping home where family love, honesty of performance, integrity of conduct, honor and unselfishness are taught and lived."

The home, he said, needs supplemental help.

"I think of Cub Scouting as a great supplement reaching into approximately 800,000 homes. I see father, mother and youngster building a program together—having fun, having enjoyment, helping the boy, but just as important, helping to build and maintain the American home of character."

"What is true of Cub Scouting," he added, "is likewise true of Boy Scouting and Exploring."

There are a good many fine insurance agencies — with experience and knowledge and services which recommend them highly to the public. How can you tell which ones come under this category? What points the way? There are a number of things. First of all, good agents represent good insurance companies. Next, the good agent is always anxious to render services which are unusual but essential to the insurance welfare of his policyholders. Two Couples Doing Great in Sports

By GRANTLAND RICE

ALONG the road known as "the cash and glory trail" there are two couples out California way who will very likely get by financially through the year ahead. They should break better than even.

One is Leo Durocher and Laraine Day. The other is Ralph Kiner and Nancy Chaffee Kiner, his bride.

Durocher, the Giant leader, is picking up in the general neighborhood of $50,000. The chances are his wife, Laraine Day, is doing even better. The two have been offered a fancy handout for a television skit, working together, which they can't use at the moment. In addition to which taxes would leave them working practically for nothing except exercise. Exercise is important but a poor substitute for cash.

Grantland Rice

The two Kiners, Nancy and Ralph, are riding the top waves.

Ralph is picking up $65,000 a year as the home-run hitter of both leagues. He is practically the only reason Pittsburgh fans have been coming to the Pirate park. It can be different a year or two from now when Branch Rickey begins to use his magic.

Nancy Chaffee is one of the better younger tennis players we have around. She happens to be an extremely charming and attractive young lady, just as Laraine Day is.

The Kiners have also been offered a well-paying TV spot, but have decided to wait until next year. Ralph has been building a new home at Palm Springs and it won't be any hut. The Durochers can look forward to a big season. Leo is defending the National League pennant won in a miracle finish. Laraine Day has all the TV engagements one young lady can handle.

The Case of Ralph Kiner

Ralph Kiner is a rather remarkable young man. He is now only 29 years old. He will be 30 next October. He came to the Pirates in 1946 direct from the Navy Air Force and has led his league or tied for leaderships in home runs ever since. He has been baseball's main slugger ever since he really got warmed up.

In the last six seasons Kiner has contributed 257 home runs to the list. He will never approach Babe Ruth's total of above 700, but he should continue to lead both leagues for several years. In the last five years he has averaged between 47 and 48 homers, which isn't feather duster swinging.

Kiner is something more than a good hitter. He is also a 75 golfer and a pretty good tennis player. He still can't quite handle Nancy in a tennis duel, but he is improving week by week. For that matter Nancy can't hit as many home runs as Kiner can. This should be the ideal American couple. They are young, good looking, healthy, strong and deeply interested in sports, where both excel along certain lines.

If Nancy can have the same influence over Ralph that Laraine has had over Leo, Kiner should hit 700 home runs this next season. The motion picture star and TV vision has done something of an incredible nature to Durocher since he played with the Yankees many years ago. Fiery, reckless, but still smart, almost beyond control, always a great field leader, Leo Durocher has turned into a smooth, controlled, hustling manager who has the respect and affection of his team. He gives his men all the credit—a lesson I think Chuck Dressen has learned for 1952. And I happen to be a Chuck Dressen supporter for future delivery.

New Champ Under Way

Australia's Davis Cup victory was expected and it will be expected again next year as long as Frank Sedgman is hanging around the tennis premises.

Just as Sedgman was on the point of leaping into pro arms, Australia got smart by giving their star a $10,000 wedding present, tax free, and also by getting him a good job in the government. The twice-beaten U.S. will still have Trabert, Savitt and a few others next year, but they still won't be good enough to handle Australia.

It can be different around two or three years from now. We have just finished looking at a young kid who may easily be the best in the world, given just a little more growth.

He is close to being magnificent today. His name is Michael Franks, of Beverly Hills. What about Mike Franks? In the first place he has just turned 15. But a short while back, still in his 14th year, he beat the 18-year-old champion of California, regarded as a sure thing, in a morning match. In the afternoon on that same day young 14-year-old Franks whipped the 18-year-old Junior Champion.

Why all this ballyhoo? In the first place the young star has considerable power already stored away in his youthful system. He can really powder a tennis ball. In the second place he has amazing control of every stroke. He can put the ball just about where he wants it. He has almost perfect style even now.

"Even in the toughest competition he is amazingly cool and calm," Feltrop says. "If Mike Franks isn't world champion before he is 20, I'll never make another tennis prediction. He has everything it takes. Everything."

SPORTSMAN'S HORIZON

By JIM RHODY

All-Round Champ

Ben Hardesty, 22 year old tackle salesman from Detroit, has just about run out of laurels to capture after his recent fourth successive sweep of professional casting honors at the National Association of Angling and Casting Clubs Tournament held this year in Washington, D.C. In addition to successfully defending his "U.S. Professional All Accuracy" title, Hardesty took back to the motor city the "Fishermen's All 'Round" trophy, too. This was won in a series of casting events designed to simulate casting under fishing conditions, with standard fishing tackle.

Hardesty & Trophies

Ben is the newly appointed Shakespeare tackle salesman in Detroit and Southeastern Michigan. He has demonstrated his proficiency in the use of the tackle he sells by racking up the unusual score of 385 out of a possible 400 points against the top casting "pros" of the country. The accuracy contest at the NAACC tournament, the country's largest, is divided into four events: bait casting with ⅜ and ⅛ ounce plugs, and fly casting with wet and dry flies. There are a possible 10 points that can be scored on each of ten targets in each event. By taking top honors in the accuracy events and the fishermen's casting, Hardesty earned the five star title, "U.S. Professional All Accuracy and Fishermen's All 'Round" Champion.

Shells Better Now

Dampness and scuffing have far less adverse effect on shotgun shells today than they did only a few years ago. Western-Winchester has the answer when it explains that today's shell tubes are made of high wet-strength paper.

This plastic-treated material has been used by the famous sporting arms and ammunition firm since a series of tests showed it to be tougher and more water-resistant than the old-style paper.

One of the tests developed by Western - Winchester involved the use of a mechanical device which reproduced the rough treatment received by shells carried loosely in the damp pocket of an active sportsman.

Soaked In Water

Shotgun shells made with tubes of the new paper were soaked for half an hour in warm water and then given a severe drubbing for 15 minutes in the "hunter's pocket." Ballisticians found these new shells suffered no ill-effects from the mistreatment.

A similar test given old-type resulted in fraying to the tubes so extensive that chambering of the shells in a shotgun was difficult or impossible.

High wet-strength paper first was used as a packaging material and for maps during the war. It was chosen after the paper suffered "no apparent damage" when it was soaked in water, daubed with mud, paint and gasoline, tramped over by an entire regiment and then rolled over by a tank.

Wildlife Week

National Wildlife Week in 1952 will be dedicated to preservation of a species of wildlife about to pass from the American scene—the diminutive Key deer of Florida. Plans for the annual observance, March 16-22, were announced in Washington January 1 by the National Wildlife Federation. Chairman for the Week will be Ed Dodd, creator of the popular newspaper and radio outdoors feature, "Mark Trail."

National Wildlife Week has been an annual observance since 1938. The 1952 celebration will mark the beginning of a new series in which each year a particular kind of wildlife—some species in critical or precarious condition—will be given special attention. The 1952 goal will be to save the Key deer from extinction. As part of the observance, the Federation has created a special fund, known as the Key deer fund.

River Largemouth

Most largemouth rivers are sluggish, southern streams, and fishing them is not a great deal different from fishing a lake. Occasionally largemouths occur in a stream made up of alternate pools and riffles, and there they usually inhabit the pools.

In such a river, the spot where the current runs out into a big pool often is good. At other times they are found in the deepest, quietest parts, or after snows in the shallows.

California: Where Lobbyists Grow Big and Mobsters Thrive

Crime and corruption in California had a special flavor—exotic, over-ripe and a little sickening. The rackets, like the state itself, were big and colorful.

For years, parts of California literally have been infested with every conceivable kind of gambling racket. The "take" runs into the millions.

One big gambling racket broken up in Los Angeles after the California Crime Commission went into business was the so-called Guarantee Finance Co., which posed as a legitimate loan agency while fronting for a $6,000,000 bookmaking combine. Its records disclosed payments totalling $108,000 for "juice," the California gamblers euphemism (in Florida, it's "ice") for "protection" money.

• • •

The Los Angeles city police department was headed by a determined officer, Chief William H. Parker. Our committee, however, was not impressed by the Los Angeles County sheriff's office.

Guarantee Finance Co. shrewdly had set up its headquarters in a particular political "island" known as "Sunset Strip" inside Los Angeles proper. This was county territory and, accordingly, not subject to the tougher Los Angeles police.

One of Chief Parker's aggressive officers, Lt. James Fiske, finally became so incensed by the sheriff's inactivity that he entered Sunset Strip and came down through a skylight into the huge telephone room of the bookmaking operation.

Out of his jurisdiction, he was unable to make any arrests, but he did tear up all the bookies' markers so they were at a loss as to how to settle their bets for that day. As a result, Lieutenant Fiske said, a stern letter was received from Al Guasti, then a captain in the sheriff's office, demanding that city police stay out of county territory.

A county grand jury was probing payoffs to law enforcement officers by Guarantee Finance. The grand jury foreman and four county officials met in secret to plan the inquiry. The only other persons let in on the plans were two process servers who were to serve subpoenas. The very next day, someone "leaked" the plans to Sammy Rummel, lawyer for gangsters, and reputedly the brains behind the mobster, Mickey Cohen.

• • •

A series of incredible events followed. First, Rummel arranged a rendezvous with Captain Guasti. Guasti, in turn, arranged for the "mouthpiece" to meet that night with Captain Carl Pearson and Sgt Lawrence Shaffer, of the sheriff's vice squad. At this meeting, Guasti said, Sergeant Shaffer actually exhibited to Rummel the sheriff's confidential files dealing with the Guarantee case. Next morning Rummel was found dead—killed in his yard by a close-range shotgun blast.

• • •

Police Chief Parker, who has made life miserable for Mickey Cohen in recent years, told us that he does not go along with the rumor that the little ex-pug is now a second-rater.

Mickey, gambler and bookmaker, extortionist and all-round racketeer, is still decidedly important. His "business interests" invade many spheres, including prostitution, Chief Parker said.

• • •

"I have never been a strong-arm man for nobody," Mickey howled at us, almost hysterically. "I have never bulldozed anybody in my life." His testimony contradicted this. There was the time that one Max Shaman entered Mickey's "Paint Shop" (Mickey always seemed to have either a paint shop, a jewelry store or a haberdashery; some investigators are unkind enough to believe that he used them as fronts for bookmaking.) Mickey had had a fist fight with Shaman's brother, and Shaman "came in with his gun." Mickey pulled his own out of the desk, killed Shaman first and was acquitted on his plea of self defense.

There was at least one other arrest on suspicion of murder, and an assortment of beatings which Cohen admitted he had administered to various characters.

Mickey painted us a lugubrious picture of his financial condition. All the money he had in the world was in his pocket, he said. Checking his roll, Mickey sadly told us it came to only $286. However, in four years, Cohen had "borrowed" approximately $300,000, he said, from various sources. Most remarkable of all his loans was the $35,000 he said he had borrowed from the president (no longer there) of a Hollywood bank, without giving a note or paying any interest.

"What do you do for them," I inquired, "that makes them so generous with you?" Cohen replied: "I can't answer that; they must just like me."

Our Committee had uncovered some interesting facts on Mickey's method of reporting income to the government. These interested the Internal Revenue Bureau, too, and after our final hearings, Cohen and his blonde wife, Lavonne, were indicted for alleged income tax evasion over a period of three years. Instead of paying taxes on approximately $318,500 income, they reported and paid on only $87,500, the government contends.

(Cohen was found guilty and sentenced to 5 years in prison).

The piece de resistance of our West coast investigation was the spearance of Arthur H. Samish, the portly million-dollar beer lobbyist. Californians have had snatches of his squalid story before, but never in quite such detail direct from the lips of the master string puller himself.

Samish stands over 6 feet, 2 inches and must weigh better than 300 pounds. He is bald with a monk's tonsure of grey fringe, and a face of bland innocence. He gesticulates freely in the grand style, stabbing the air with his horn-rimmed glasses or fiddling with his watch chain, a heavy affair of white gold or platinum, made up of large links which form his initials.

From his 1949 tax return, we knew Samish's gross reported income had been $143,697. Of this income, $90,999.94 represented fees from his "public relations" clients. The principal contributor was the California State Brewers' Institute, which provided a modest $30,000 in salary and expenses, plus control of a $153,000-a-year slush fund.

A 1938 report from Howard R. Philbrick, investigator for a California legislative committee, had charged: "The principal source of corruption in the legislature has been money pressure . . . The principal offender among the lobbyists has been Arthur E. Samish . . ." It was the Philbrick report which credited to Samish the famous declaration that he was "the governor of the legislature"—and "to hell with the governor of the state."

The State Brewers' Institute, a non-profit organization, has a special so-called "5-cent fund." For every barrel of beer produced, the brewers paid 5 cents into a fund which Samish spent as he saw fit.

Into the 5-cent "Samish fund," over a period of six years, $953,943.19 has flowed. All but $43,913.29 of the $935,000 has been spent by sole and exclusive direction of Samish. Some of it, he admitted, went to pay his own personal hotel expenses when he was presumably engaged in business for the institute. He didn't mention this in his tax returns.

The fireworks began after our investigator had gone over the books and records which Samish had turned over with flourishes. It developed that Samish's personal records and books were in understandable shape, but there were no records concerning the "Samish fund" of nearly $1,000,000.

We asked him what happened to canceled checks and stubs written on this fund. He said he throws them in the wastebasket.

Finally, he relinquished to us a typewritten "analysis." It wasn't much of an "analysis," it merely showed that most of the big checks—from $10,000 to $40,000—were made out to "cash" or "contributions." Samish admitted that "'cash' and 'contributions' are the same thing," and that these items in most cases meant that money was distributed by him personally—and in cash—to good, honest, outstanding officials that subscribed to "the temperate use of beer, wine and spirits." He demanded no receipts from them.

He made contributions to the candidates of both major parties, but he couldn't seem to remember to whom he gave the money.

WHEELCHAIR BURGLAR

Cripple Boasts He's Master Criminal

OAKLAND, Calif.—Leo Whaley, a husky cripple of 15, doomed to life in a wheelchair because of a childhood accident 11 years ago, was caught burglarizing a home here. Booked for investigation, he proudly boasted to officers that he had masterminded two young gangs in previous burglaries.

Police Lt. Leon Carroll said that young Leo had the "most perfect set of pick keys I've ever seen." The youth demonstrated his ability to the awed policemen by opening police files.

Whaley "cased" the Harry J. MacDonald home to see that no one was there, then entered through a rear door that had been left unlocked. He told police that he attended classes for the handicapped at a local elementary school.

Diplomatic Mecca

Hawaii, strategic islands in Pacific and world affairs, has a resident "diplomatic corps" representing 14 countries. Based in Honolulu are consuls and trade delegates acting for Scandinavia, South America, England, the orient, Belgium, Netherlands and the Philippines. Larger than the diplomatic colony of most cities of comparable size, the Honolulu corps is headed in rank by Elbert D. Thomas, high commissioner of the Pacific trust territory who ranks as ambassador.

Spark Plugs

In an automobile spark plug which has been used too long without checkup or change, the temperature of the tip of the insulator will rise as much as 45 degrees if gas leaks between center electrode and insulator, according to Champion engineers. That's one reason why a change of spark plugs every 10,000 miles is recommended.

Special Decoration

Hawaiians are just as impressed as visitors by the scenic beauties of the islands. Local interior decorators for a new Honolulu super market forewent standard American store trimmings and gave island shoppers a mural of Mauna Kea volcano with paniolas (Hawaiian cowboys) riding herd down the slopes over the meat counter.

Ukulele Playing

Visitors to Hawaii generally can plunk out a few recognizable notes after half an hour with an ukulele. But to graduate up into the expert class takes a bit of doing—there are more than 100 different chords used in the islands.

Venders Of Old

Needs U.S. Coal

France's steel industry is operating at 85% of capacity for want of coal, and France has asked the U.S. to send her 12 million tons of American coal by the end of this year.

Ore Ranges

Henry W. Oliver was a leader in helping to develop the Lake Superior iron ore ranges in the latter part of the 19th Century. He also was a steel plant operator and a railroad car builder.

Huge Haul

Cincinnati recently glimpsed the freight haul of tomorrow, as a giant Air Force Globemaster winged in to pick up a hurry-order 20,800-pound cargo. Huge nose doors swung open, a ramp slid out, and three big truck-Trailmobiles backed up to discharge cargos inside the plane belly. That afternoon the consignment was in use at the Merced, California, air base.

More Poi!

So you think Hawaiians are kidding when they say they love their poi, that pastelike Polynesian food? In a letter-to-the-editor printed in a Maui island paper, a convalescing islander at a Hawaiian hospital praised the doctors, praised the nurses but demanded: "Why does not poi appear on the hospital menu?"

Improved Flowers

Annual flowers have been improved by plant breeders more than any other group of plants. The fact that a new generation grows each year is responsible for quicker improvement than is possible with slower growing perennials.

Water Supply

Shasta Lake, the vast reservoir behind Shasta Dam, contains when full one trillion, 449 billion gallons of water, or 9,666 gallons for every man, woman and child in the United States.

It's Wonderful the Way Chewing-Gum Laxative Acts Chiefly to

REMOVE WASTE —NOT GOOD FOOD

● Here's the secret millions of folks have discovered about FEEN-A-MINT, the modern chewing-gum laxative. Yes, here is why FEEN-A-MINT's action is so wonderfully different!

Doctors say that many other laxatives start their "flushing" action too soon... right in the stomach where food is being digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, flush away nourishing food you need for health and energy. You feel weak, worn out.

But gentle FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes mostly waste, not good food! You avoid that typical weak, tired, run-down feeling. Use FEEN-A-MINT and feel your "peppy," energetic self—full of life! Get FEEN-A-MINT! No increase in price—still 25¢, 50¢ or only 10¢.
